Porsche Motorsport will continue its close collaboration with ProSpeed Competition and young German Marco Holzer will represent the factory. Official driver Holzer will get the experienced Belgian Marc Goossens in support.

ProSpeed Competition will continue its international program in the « Le Mans Series » 2011 and the team is very ambitious. One of the major partners of ProSpeed Competition in the international series is CPL Trans-Alcra Flash, a major player in the international transport and haulage market.

The « Le Mans Series » 2011 has a five-race schedule, with one on the home ground of ProSpeed Competition. The 1000 km of Spa-Francorchamps will take place on the 8th of May. Before the season, ProSpeed Competition is heading towards the South of Europe in February for private testing sessions, followed by the official test days of the « Le Mans Series » and the season's kick off on the track of Paul Ricard in April.

Charles Vande Craen (CPL Trans-Alcra Flash):

-« The reason why we continue and even intensify our collaboration with ProSpeed Competition is obvious. For our company it's very important to support a major partner in an international environment, especially as a major autosport brand such as Porsche is also involved in the « Le Mans Series » project. Our aim is to be successful and we can only be successful if there is a 100% commitment of all members of the team, something we also try to achieve with our company. We feel that we have a lot in common with ProSpeed Competition and that we share the same values. »

Rudi Penders (Team Principal):

-« We ended the 2010 « Le Mans Series » on a high with a second place in Silverstone and 2011 has to go in the same direction. Today we know that all the necessary elements of new success are there : a brand new and performing car, a very strong driver line-up, the intense collaboration with Porsche Motorsport, our partnership with CPL Trans-Alcra Flash and of course our own experience and knowledge. If all those elements come together in a proper way, we should be able to be successful. »
