LE MANS SERIES – MICHELIN GREEN X CHALLENGE

SPEEDY RACING TEAM SEBAH is the current leader of the Michelin Green X Challenge and since the second race of the 2009 Le Mans Series they have seen their #33 LMP2 Lola Coupé - Judd driven by Jonny Kane, Benjamin Leuenberger and Xavier Pompidou rise to the top of the classification.

With one more race to go with the « Finale » at Silverstone from 11 to 13 September, SPEEDY RACING TEAM SEBAH is in a good position to win the trophy.

The team's Lola Coupé - Judd #33 won the Michelin Green X Challenge round at the previous 1000 km Le Mans Series race at the Nurburgring and extended its lead in the Challenge classification to 23 points over the second placed Pescarolo-Mazda #35 and 28 points over the third placed Aston Martin #007.

Through the MICHELIN Green X Challenge, all teams competing in the 2009 Le Mans Series also participate in the Challenge that measures and rewards teams for achieving the highest performance on the race circuit with the greatest fuel-efficiency and the least environmental impact.

The winner of the 2009 Michelin Green X Challenge will be rewarded with an automatic entry for 2010 Le Mans 24 Hours.

Bart Hayden, Team Manager : « Winning the Michelin Green X Challenge would mean a lot for our team, we try to operate in a way that minimises the team's impact on the environment. Proving on the track to be one of the most efficient teams in endurance racing is important for us. »
